NOTE: Students may take more than 10 sociology courses if desired. All students need a total of 45 upper division credits to graduate; completion of major requirements will count as 30 of these. The additional 15 upper division credits are free electives; you may take additional sociology courses or any 3000 or 4000 level courses offered across the university.

NOTE: The department currently offers two or three 4000-level courses in both the fall term and the spring term.. The 4000-level courses offered include courses from the list above, but please note that we frequently offer SYA 4930 with variable titles. Recent SYA 4930 courses offered by the department include: Sociology of Happiness: Research and Sociology of Housing: The Affordable Housing Crisis. Students may fulfill their major requirements with multiple SYA 4930 and SYA 3930 courses.
